

Aged Man Held Up and Robbed By Two Women

Hubert Finley, employed on Street Department, Held Up and Robbed on Meadow Street on Saturday Night—One Negroes Is Held for Grand Jury.

Hubert Finley, an aged man who is employed on the street department, last Saturday night went to Skelton's barber shop on East Strand to be shaved and after leaving the barber shop took a short cut home by going up Hasbrouck avenue to Mill street and over Ann street to Meadow street. He had just turned the corner from Ann street into Mill street when he said he was assaulted by three colored women, who grasped him and threw him to the ground and then went through his pockets, stealing about $40 in cash.

Arrest Followed Holdup.

The holdup of the aged man was followed by the arrest of Billy King, a negro, who was arraigned before Judge Shufeldt in police court this morning charged with robbery in the second degree. She was represented by Attorney Thomas F. Coughlin, while Attorney Francis T. Murray appeared for the district attorney's office.

Finley Tells His Story.

Mr. Finley told his story of the assault and robbery. He said for about a month he had been living at 102 Spring street and was employed by the city. He had received his two weeks' pay a few days before the robbery.

He told of visiting Skelton's barber shop and later leaving there, stopping at a cafe on Hasbrouck avenue where he had a glass of beer. He said he never drank anything stronger. As he was turning the corner from Ann street into Meadow street on his way home, three negroes stopped him and grasped him by the arms.

He said he attempted to break away and that they threw him to the ground and then went through his pockets. He has a cut on the neck where he was injured in the fracas and also a wound on one of his hands.

Unable to identify women. He said in reply to questions that he was unable to identify any of the three women.

As the women went through his pockets, he said he "holed for help."

Ewel Made the Arrest.

Fred Ewel of No. 115 Broadway testified that on the night in question he was standing on the sidewalk in front of his home when four negroes, of which number Billy King was one, passed and that they stopped and one of them, he could not swear it was Billy, made a suggestion to him and he advised her to walk along about her own business.

Mr. Ewel later in the evening was turning from Broadway into Meadow street and he went by a short distance when he heard a call for help and saw two women coming from the body of Mr. Finley.

He said he heard Mr. Finley call "Help, police, murder."

Mr. Ewel pursued the two women and caught them, and then called to Joseph Smith of 38 Pearl street, who was passing on the opposite side of the street, to come to his assistance.

Both women were placed under arrest by Mr. Ewel and as he did so, one of them broke away and successfully made her escape, leaving a fur place behind.

The other, Billy King, also got away and went in the alley near one of the buildings on Chamber street, but was caught again.

Turned Over to Police. Mr. Ewel and Mr. Smith then escorted Billy King out to Broadway and while Smith held her, Ewel telephoned the police department for the car, and she was placed in it. They also picked up Finley at Mufson's corner on Broadway, and took them both to police headquarters.

She Saw Assault.

Mrs. Arthur Hotelling of No. 53 Meadow street testified that she was walking through Meadow street when she saw Mr. Finley approach and then saw two women grasp him, and all three fell to the ground. She heard him call for help, and then saw the women leave the spot and cross over to the other side of the street. She said she knew they were women but was unable to tell whether they were white or black as they had their back to her.

She then met Mr. Ewel and told him she thought the women were robbing the man, and that Ewel then crossed over and that he started after the women after they had left the scene. She also met Mr. Smith and told him about it and he followed after Mr. Ewel and the two women. The last she saw of the four was when they turned the corner into Chambers street.

Pocketbook Was Found.

According to Mr. Finley's story of the robbery, he had two pocketbooks, one a small change purse and the other in the form of a bill fold. The larger pocketbook was later found by Policeman Hicks in the alleyway into which it was testified that Billy King had gone.

The finding of the pocketbook was testified to by Joseph Smith of No. 38 Pearl street, who told how Ewel had called to him to assist him and how one of the women had made good her escape.

Held for Grand Jury.

President Praises Industrial Peace And Its Results

Mayor Understanding Between Employer and Employee and Resulting in Increased Effort and Efficiency in Production, Says Mr. Coolidge at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 13.—The industrial "peace" of today which "short time since would have seemed impossible" received the praise of President Coolidge in a speech here today at the annual observance of Founder's Day at Carnegie Institute.

The "better understanding" was attributed by the President to the closer cooperation of the people and a realization by employer and employee of their "mutuality and interest."

"It has been a great harvest of contentment," he said, "and a great increase of effort and efficiency in production. In its light the relation between employer and employee has been so greatly improved that much of the old friction no longer exists."

"The rattle of the reaper, the buzz of the saw, the clang of the anvil, the roar of traffic are all part of a mighty symphony, not only of material but of spiritual progress."

"Out of them the Nation is supporting its religious institutions, endowing its colleges, providing its charities, furnishing adornments of architecture, rearing its monuments, organizing its orchestras, and encouraging its paintings."

Eulogizing the accomplishments of the late Andrew Carnegie who founded this trade school, Mr. Coolidge also emphasized his interest in art work which has culminated in the Twenty-sixth International Exhibition of Paintings here today.

This exhibition was on the President's program and he declared in his address that "it may be that in the spirit which animates the conduct of these exhibitions lies the germ of better world relationship."

"While it will always be desirable to stimulate and encourage the production of fine paintings, it is even more desirable," he said, "to stimulate and encourage their wide operation by the people."

"It is a fundamental principle of our institution that freedom, education and wealth are not to be reserved for the few, but are to be reached through equal opportunity which is open to all. We have staked America on the potential capacity of the average citizen."

President Praises Mellon. Leading the progress made by the city of Pittsburgh, the President called particular attention to Andrew Mellon, his secretary of treasury, and Richard E. Mellon of Pittsburgh, whose generosity, he said, made possible the art exhibition.

"They stand out as men who are devoting themselves to the service of humanity," said Mr. Coolidge, "one by remaining as a leader in great financial and industrial enterprises and the other by turning his great talents to the administration of public finance as secretary of the treasury of the United States, where his leadership in the last six years has been greatly instrumental in restoring the economic equilibrium of the world."

Establishment of this government and of this community have been brought about, Mr. Coolidge said, "by a supreme effort, by the making of sacrifices that reached to life itself."

These results, he added, "have come from men who could face facts and were willing to grapple with realities; from men whose hands were hardened by the plow, whose faces were blackened at the forge, whose bodies had been exposed to the fire of hostile forces."

EMANUEL METZGER'S CAR DAMAGED IN AUTO CRASH

Tuesday evening the Jewett sedan driven by Emanuel Metzger of this city and a Dodge touring car of Edward Boscherio of Saugerties, collided on the King's Highway, a short distance from Mt. Marion. State Troopers placed Boscherio under arrest and later he furnished $100 bail for his appearance before Justice of the Peace Harry M. Abel in Saugerties on October 18. Both cars were damaged. Metzger's car was towed to the Port Ewen garage and the other car was towed to Saugerties.

Shufeldt held Billy King to await the action of the grand jury. He stated that the amount of bail would be fixed in county court.

Falsely Held, Says Krajewski

And Brings Action in Supreme Court to Recover $5,000 Damages Against James Prusak and Others—Evidence in Case Completed Wednesday.

The evidence in the action brought by Frank Krajewski of Third avenue against James Prusak, the Polish Sick and Aid Society, and George Quigley to recover $5,000 damages for malicious prosecution was completed in the Supreme court before Judge C. D. B. Hasbrouck and a jury Wednesday afternoon and court adjourned to this morning when both sides summed up and the case was sent to the jury. Attorney Chris J. Flanagan represented Krajewski, Attorney Andrew J. Cook appeared for Quigley and Judge Frederick Stephan, Jr., for the society. Prusak was not present or represented by counsel at the trial of the action.

The first witness called at the afternoon session was District Attorney Frederick G. Traver who testified that the grand jury at the May term in 1925 had considered the case against Krajewski, who was charged with an attempt to commit the crime of burglary in the third degree at the White Eagle Hall on Delaware avenue on the early evening of February 28, 1925, and that the grand jury dismissed the charge.

"Greatly Humiliated."

Frank Krajewski, testifying in his own behalf, said he lived at 65 Third avenue, which was about two blocks away from the White Eagle Hall. He said he was arrested on a warrant on March 2 of that year and taken to police headquarters and later to the county jail where he was held for the night. He claimed that the police refused to allow him to telephone his folks of his whereabouts and that another request to telephone them made before he was locked up in jail was also refused. The next morning he was arraigned before Judge Harry E. Schirck in police court, and the hearing adjourned and he was released on bail, which he furnished. The case was adjourned several times but finally on April 15 he was given a hearing and was held for the grand jury.

He said he was greatly humiliated by his arrest and that the Polish people were all talking about it. He was 17 years old at the time and worked with his father who was employed on one of the city's garbage wagons. He said he was paid $4 a day. At the time of the hearings in police court he testified he had retained Mr. Flanagan as his attorney and had paid him $100 for his services.

Denied Alleged Crime.

In reply to questions by Attorney Flanagan, he denied that he had attempted to break into White Eagle Hall, as charged at that time, and said he had never been inside the building at any time.

Asked About Robbery.

On cross-examination by Attorney Cook, the young man was asked if he had informed one Zemon Raskoskie that on or about February 19, 1925, he had entered White Eagle Hall and stolen a sum of money amounting to about $100 and a revolver and that later he had changed the revolver for a shot gun with an Italian locksmith up town; that at the time he entered the building he had worn gloves which he had later thrown into the outside toilet on the property of Casper Michael on Delaware avenue.

Krajewski denied it and said he had never broken into the hall or had he ever made any such statements to Raskoskie.

Never Arrested Before.

Krajewski in reply to questions by his attorney testified that he had never been convicted of a crime and had never been arrested except the time in question.

Mrs. Quigley Testifies.

Mrs. George Quigley, wife of George Quigley, one of the defendants in the action, said that at the time Krajewski was arrested in March of 1925 she and her husband resided on the third floor of 46 Jarrold street and that the back yard of her home was separated from the back yard of the White Eagle Hall by a board fence. She said that about 6 o'clock on the evening of February 19 of that year and of her kitchen window and saw Krajewski trying to enter the hall by a rear window which she said he had pried open.

She said that when she opened her window Krajewski looked up and when he saw her, started to run away and she called after him that he needn't run as she knew him.

Mrs. Quigley said that she was one of the witnesses who had appeared in police court and before the grand jury in the Krajewski case.

Quigley Testifies.

Her husband testified that he was glancing out of the kitchen window of his home and when he saw Krajewski, he called his wife's attention to what he was doing.

On cross-examination he said that he had later gone over to the hall and told the janitor about it and that later in the evening James Prusak, who at that time was president of the Sick and Aid Society, had called at his house.

As a result of that visit he, Quigley, had sworn to an affidavit before Judge Schirck.

Other witnesses called by the defense were Walter Raskoskie, who was then and now is secretary of the society. His testimony in brief was

Ulster Red Cross Seeks to Secure 5,500 Members

National Organization Suggests That Goal for Ulster County as Part of Campaign to Secure Five Million Members in United States—Roll Call Starts November 11.

The goal set for the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, for its Eleventh Annual Roll Call, which will be held November 11 to 21, is 5,500 members. This membership was suggested by the central committee at the Seventh Annual Convention of the American Red Cross held at Washington this month when it was decided to ask the people of the United States to increase the annual membership to five millions for 1928. Because of the increased demands for service, particularly disaster relief, and despite most rigid economy of operation the National and International Red Cross program requires considerable expenditure considerable in excess of annual income as based on past memberships. In order to meet this demand for funds the membership has been placed at five millions for the coming year.

Every Chapter has been asked to increase its memberships during the annual Roll Call and the local chapter has been asked to secure 5,500 memberships.

E. E. Oughelroe, treasurer of the local chapter, received the following telegram from Washington:

"The central committee adopted resolution requesting people of United States increase National Red Cross membership to five millions for 1928, stating in substance 'because of increased demands for service, particularly disaster relief, and despite most rigid economy of operation National and International Red Cross program requires expenditure considerably in excess of annual income. With complete confidence American people will rally to this call, central committee urges each Chapter and Branch take necessary steps to assure such increases. Suggest goal for your Chapter 5,500 members.'"

ELECTION OFFICIALS GET INSTRUCTIONS

There were about 75 inspectors of election and clerks at the court house Wednesday evening when instructions were given in regard to the voting machines by Mark Sampson, clerk of the board of elections, and representatives of the manufacturers of the machine. How errors could be made by the voter, how to vote a straight ticket of any party and how to vote for any particular candidate or candidates were illustrated. Another demonstration will be made at the court house this evening.

Delightful Solos.

Dr. Robert B. Whelan rendered two delightful solos, "One Fleeting Hour" and "Little Town in the Old County Down." Dr. Whelan's numbers were beautifully rendered and from the amount of applause accorded him, were highly appreciated.

A Masterly Address.

Senator William T. Byrne, always eloquent and always forceful, seemed to be at his best when he expressed his views on the accomplishment of Columbus. The Senator's remarkable memory enabled him to deliver one of the most scholarly and interesting talks ever listened to by members and friends of the local order.

Going Back to the Significance of the occasion—the 435th anniversary of America—the speaker gave the historical record of the discoverer of America. Born in 1452 or 1453 at Genoa, which is disputed by some historians, Columbus' earlier life is dubious and conjectural, but he appears to have become a sailor when very young. He sailed to many ports with bold sea captains and privateers, meanwhile preparing himself for greater achievement by reading and meditating on the travels of Marco Polo. He mastered all the sciences essential to his calling, learned to draw charts, etc., and fitted himself to become a consummate practical navigator.

Local Knights Enjoy Columbus Day Banquet

Senator Byrne Delivers Eloquent Address—Other Features That Rounded Out a Very Pleasing Program at Stuyvesant Hotel.

Columbus Day was observed by Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, very fittingly and came to a happy termination Wednesday evening at the Stuyvesant Hotel where a banquet was held, the principal speaker of the occasion being Senator William T. Byrne. Senator Byrne delivered a scholarly address on "America, The Great," and his great knowledge of history impressed his listeners, who were very appreciative. The speaker left a message with the local Knights that if followed out will help make them better Americans and better Catholics and Knights of Columbus.

The delicious turkey dinner was faultlessly served and there was many happy expressions of praise for Manager C. W. Winne.

The Rev. Michael J. Larkin of New Rochelle, in the absence of the chaplain, the Rev. F. X. FitzPatrick, gave the invocation which was followed by the singing of "America" by the assemblage. John P. Ernie's orchestra was in attendance and throughout the dinner rendered a very delightful program.

J. M. Cashin Master of Ceremonies.

Grand Knight Florian P. Wingert welcomed the gathering and expressed his appreciation of the large attendance. In introducing John M. Cashin as toastmaster the Grand Knight paid a high tribute to the master of ceremonies.

Mr. Cashin before taking up his duties made a very strong appeal to the local Knights for greater activity. A bigger and better club house, where the Catholic youth of the city could have the proper supervision while developing themselves physically, was the earnest wish of the speaker.

Chaplain Talks.

Before introducing his first speaker Toastmaster Cashin requested that all arise and drink a toast to the President of the United States and the Governor of New York state.

The Rev. F. X. FitzPatrick of St. Mary's Church and chaplain of Kingston Council referred to Christopher Columbus as religious, faithful, courageous and a man of great vision and exhorted local Knights to follow in his steps if they would better exemplify their charity and practical Catholicity, the cardinal principals of the order.

Miss Byrne Pleased All.

Following Father FitzPatrick's address Miss Anne Byrne gave readings, one of which was about a ball game and her presentation of a girl asking questions and becoming confused while in attendance at the game was very pleasing and she was forced to respond to an encore after she was lustily cheered to the echo. Miss Byrne is a teacher of elocution at the Kingston High School.

District Deputy Talks.

District Deputy Patrick T. Murphy in his talk gave a review of Kingston Council, in which he did not forget the pioneers of the order, who accomplished much in the face of many obstacles which at times appeared insurmountable.

Tracing back over the thirty year period that the local organization has been functioning, the district deputy told of the first meetings held in various halls throughout the city and the steady growth of the membership which in 1927 was thirty members. Today there are 900 members of Kingston Council.

That the pioneers of the order had foresight in obtaining a building of their own is patent in the great growth of the council. The speaker paid tribute to John E. Mahar, a past grand knight of the local order and one of its most interested members. In closing he urged members to take an active part in the affairs of the council.

Delightful Solos.

Dr. Robert B. Whelan rendered two delightful solos, "One Fleeting Hour" and "Little Town in the Old County Down." Dr. Whelan's numbers were beautifully rendered and from the amount of applause accorded him, were highly appreciated.

Ruth Elder and Pilot Picked Up Off Azores

Girl Aviator Sends Message Telling of Landing With Broken Oil Line—Steamer Olympic Reports American Girl Picked Up Off Azores by Dutch Steamer With Passengers Well.

Before start of flight, Ruth Elder helped to stow away provisions for herself and Captain Haldeman. Inset shows Captain Haldeman.

Paris, Oct. 13 (AP).—A message to the Paris office of The Associated Press received this afternoon from Miss Ruth Elder, the aviator, told of her landing at sea beside the Dutch tanker Barendrecht.

The message, which said that she and Captain George Haldeman were okay, said that the landing of the American Girl while en route to Paris from New York had been caused by a broken oil line.

The message, which did not give the position of the tanker, was received at the Paris office of the Associated Press at 4:35 p. m. The message had been radioed from the Barendrecht to the steamship Bayano which relayed it to the wireless station at Debizies.

Steamer Olympic Report.

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—The Radio Corporation of America announced today that it was informed by wireless from the steamer Olympic that the Dutch steamer Barendrecht had picked up the crew of the monoplane American Girl off the Azores.

Officials of the Radio Corporation said the brief message, relayed via the Leviathan to the Chatham station of the company, did not mention the time when Ruth Elder and her copilot were rescued by the Dutch steamer.

The message received from the Olympic, radio officials said read: "A monoplane American Girl picked up off Azores by Dutch steamer Barendrecht. Both well."

A Dutch Tanker.

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—The steamship Barendrecht is a Dutch tanker owned by the P. H. Van Ommen Company of Rotterdam, according to local steamship companies. The Radio Corporation said the vessel was bound from Valencia, Spain, to Rotterdam and apparently has since left the latter port for Houston, Texas.

London, Oct. 13 (AP).—The agents of the tanker Barendrecht in London state that the steamer left Rotterdam on October 8 for Raytown, Texas. Her position was given as approximately 1,000 miles off at the present time.

Backers Express Great Relief.

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—Informed by the Associated Press that her husband and Ruth Elder were safe after a landing at sea, Mrs. George Haldeman said, "Oh, thank you so much. I knew they would be all right."

Mrs. Haldeman and the backers of Mrs. Haldeman and T. H. McFright, all expressed greatest relief and joy that the fliers were safe.

Apple Crop Shows No Improvement

Lightest Crop in New York State in 25 Years Except in 1921—Champlain and Hudson River Sections Far Better Than Other Areas—Grape Crop Light.

The production of apples in New York state is lighter this year than any year during the past twenty-six years with the exception of 1921, according to the state-federal crop report for October just issued from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. The total crop now forecast at 15,555,000 bushels compares with 46,275,000 bushels last year and 32,599,000 bushels in 1925.

One extreme often follows another in apple growing as well as in other enterprises. Last year, New York had one of the heaviest crops of apples in recent years, this year one of the lightest. Not only are the apples scarce outside of the commercial apple growing areas but many orchards inside of the commercial areas have no apples this year. In many cases, the trees which bore heavily last year have few or no apples this year. The orchards having nearly full crops this year are very few. However, the Champlain and Hudson river sections appear to be faring better than Western New York and the Finger Lake areas.

Why Crop Is Light.

Factors which have helped to make this year's production light are: Overbearing last year, late freezing last spring, heavy scab and other insect injury during the growing season. As is usual in years of very light production, a larger than average proportion of the fruit is scabby and misshapen. The quality of that which will grade to one of the upper classes, however, is excellent.

The period of the year has now been reached when most of the apples left to be considered are the early and late winter varieties and, of these, the Baldwin and the Rhode Island Greening are by far the most important so far as acreage is concerned. It is estimated that the Baldwin production will be only one-third of normal and the Greening one-fifth of normal. Northern Spy and McIntosh are estimated to be about one-half of a normal crop but the number of trees of these and other miscellaneous varieties is very small compared with the number of Baldwin and Rhode Island Greening trees.

Crops in Other States.

The New York state commercial apple crop is estimated at 3,073,000 barrels compared with 6,536,000 barrels a year ago. Virginia has slightly less than a third as many commercial apples as last year; the states of Ohio, Michigan and the other Central States have about one-half as many as last year. Colorado has about two-thirds of last year's production; and the states of Washington and Oregon have about four-fifths as many as their combined production a year ago. The states of Idaho, Nebraska, Kansas and Vermont are the only ones which expect more apples than they harvested last year.

The total United States crop is now estimated at 123,115,000 bushels or about exactly half of last year's large crop. The portion of this which is estimated as commercial is 22,330,000 barrels compared with 39,411,000 barrels last year.

Fewer But Better Grapes.

Following last year's heavy crop of grapes, the yield this year in New York is very light especially in the most intensive grape section of Chautauque-Erie counties. In sharp contrast with the poor quality and low sugar content of the fruit last year are the good quality and high sugar content this year. During the last week in September the sugar content was higher than at any time last fall and it has continued to improve.

This year's production is estimated at 57,929 tons compared with 106,700 tons last year. Pennsylvania has about 14,580 tons compared with 25,110 tons in 1926. Michigan's production is estimated at 448,615 tons compared with 60,900 tons a year ago. California's production is placed at 2,344,000 tons compared with 2,040,000 tons last year, making the total United States grape production 2,551,849 tons. Last year, 2,349,117 tons were produced.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Suicide Wave Grips

Students in Turkey

Constantinople.—As a measure against a wave of suicides, especially among young students, the new chief of police, Cherif Bey, has promulgated an order prohibiting the press from giving extensive publicity to suicide cases.

Henceforth pictures of the victims may not be published nor may suicide stories appear on the front page of any Constantinople paper.

All that is to be allowed will be a brief statement in case of suicide on an inside page.

The most conspicuous tragedy in Angora was the suicide of a sixteen-year-old schoolgirl, Nihal Hanem, daughter of a prominent army officer.

SMALL BOY FORCED TO STAY IN KENNEL

Child Found Tied to Stake, With Dog Companion.

Greensburg, Pa.—Strapped to a stake to prevent him from wandering away, four-year-old Charles Garland was housed in a dog-kennel for two weeks, it was revealed with the filing of a complaint charging cruelty, against Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steinman, who live near Grapeville, Westmoreland county.

Roy Hallam, humane agent, found the child, suffering from exposure, in the kennel in the back yard of the Steinman home. A dog was the child's company.

Investigating, Hallam found Mrs. Tillie Lovell, the child's mother, in the Steinman house. Mrs. Lovell said her husband had deserted her six months ago and she returned to the Steinmans, to whom she is related. They gave shelter to her and her three-year-old son, Henry Lovell, but refused, she said, to have anything to do with the Garland child, her son by a former marriage. The Steinmans forced her, she said, to keep the elder boy strapped to the post and would not permit her to bring him into the house. The boy had no attention aside from water and food she was able to carry him surreptitiously, Mrs. Lovell said.

Seeing's Believing

"Some of them bank robbers is pretty slick with their fingers," Sam Saturday told us when he came from his great visit to the city. Overcoming Disease

Statistics show that the length of the average human life is steadily increasing and is much greater than it was half a century or a century ago. Of course this does not mean that the average individual is healthier or stronger. The increase is due chiefly to the conquest of disease, control of epidemics, better infant care, etc.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 13, 1927.

The Republicans of Kentucky have appealed to the Federal government to supervise the coming elections in their state on the ground that the Democrats are violating the Fifteenth amendment. Though the loud protests of Senators Glass and Fletcher have just been, they are personally inconsistent because both are strongly in favor of Federal prevention of violations of the Fifteenth amendment in all the states.

THE FAMILY INSTITUTION.

While so many writers are bewailing the breaking up of the American family, it is rather refreshing to come across one who declares that anybody who tries to forward the breaking up in a particular instance is likely to collide with something suggestive of flintlock. Others have contended that work-ridden fathers and dancing mothers by their neglect of their duty are putting an end to home life and sending the youngsters adrift, but according to Miss Gordon Hamilton of the New York School of Social Work such talk is premature and any new institution to replace the family is far ahead indeed. She is quoted: "If the people who are now so alarmed over the breakdown of the family would only try their hands at changing a few things they would be astonished. No one knows better than the social worker how hard it is genuinely to modify a family, let alone doing away with it."

NEED OF COURT REFORM.

Chief Justice Taft recently congratulated the judges of the Federal Circuit Courts on the increased efficiency of their tribunals, indicated by the showing that during 1926 the number of criminal cases pending were reduced by 3,500 and the civil cases by 2,000. But, as Mr. Taft himself has pointed out, this speeding up and getting accumulations out of the way, though a gratifying evidence of efficiency, is not the only improvement desirable, such judicial industry being less important than the eradication of the startling abuse of technical processes of obstruction and delay, which has so often defeated justice in the end. "My experience and observation compel me to concur in the judgment of Chief Justice Taft that the situation in our criminal courts is a disgrace," says Justice Dike of the Supreme Court of New York, after returning from Europe where, he says, the courts expedite trials, dispose quickly of appeals, and tolerate no interference with the prompt selection of juries.

The need of reform in our criminal court procedure was even more emphatically claimed by Judge McDewitt of Philadelphia the other day when he made this startling assertion: "In Pennsylvania the murderer runs only one chance out of 110 of being electrocuted after a verdict of first degree murder. Last year more laws were passed to aid the criminal in his tussle with justice than were passed to enforce punishment. The laws in this state are fashioned after laws invented in the feudal period, when serfs needed protection from brutal lords. Considering the changes made since that time, our present laws correspond to those of the sixteenth century."

RAPS WOMEN'S CLUBS.

There is reason to suspect that some of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt's "emancipated" sisters of America have been tempted to find in her husband's surname opportunity to attribute to her the less admirable of feline characteristics. For Mrs. Catt has been rather industrious in pointing out shortcomings of her sex. More than once she has reminded a great part of the woman electorate that, after working and even "longing" to get the vote, they have so largely left threesome voting to be done by others. And now Mrs. Catt has fired another broadside, this time into the women's clubs, 90 per cent of which she says, are "useless" because they are not what they pretend to be and do not do what they set out to do. Mrs. Catt rebukingly concludes that the very purpose of women's clubs is by no means identical with their real purpose.

Commenting on Mrs. Catt's charge, the New York World editorially remarks: "The real purpose in most cases is purely social; the idea is to provide talk and together with opportunity to make speeches, sing songs, and otherwise indulge in the exhibitionist impulses which are part of all healthy members of the human species. But for some reason the ladies are shy about admitting this purpose. They usually profess aims which have a lofty, impressive sound, and pretend that the social activities are only incidental." But why should Mrs. Catt or anybody complain? "Tea and talk" are the main point, and if the ladies have thrown in a little home-porous about service just for good measure they certainly do not stretch the truth any more than their brothers. Look at those numerous fraternal orders of men, whose members never think of the "glittering ideals" written in their charters and whose main object is to meet, hold a convention and wear a gay robe. Quite true, maybe, but this overlooks Mrs. Catt's desire to see her sex get ahead of mere men. Though somewhat of a gadfly, Mrs. Catt appears to be serious and earnest. She wants to see something accomplished.

DEVELOPING A NATURAL APPE-

TITE.

When a mother sees that a youngster is not eating, she quite naturally suspects trouble. Lack of appetite is one of the first symptoms of some illness approaching, and the keen eye of the mother, added to her sharpened wits, because it is her youngster, is a great aid in the early treatment of childhood ailments.

The appetite usually returns when the ailment passes.

However, there are youngsters who have no definite ailment, and yet have little or no desire for food.

Now a growing youngster must have food, and the natural impulse of the mother is to coax the child to eat, not only at meals, but also in between meals.

And it is just here that a big mistake is so often made.

There is no question but that milk is a good food. There is no question also but giving milk in schools and industrial plants to those who are undernourished, has given very gratifying results.

Unfortunately, however, when there is some underlying condition, such as constipation, had teeth, infected tonsils and lack of fresh air and sunshine, too much milk, especially between meals, only aggravates the condition, and the child experiences a complete distaste for food.

Now as mentioned before, the ideal treatment with these youngsters is to have them do without food entirely for a whole day, giving them just water to drink.

The next day a light breakfast is given, but lunch is not given for a full six hours after breakfast. By that time the youngster has a little appetite but he is allowed only a small amount of food.

Similarly dinner at night is not given until a full six hours after lunch, and by that time the youngster is ready to eat anything.

Again only a small amount of food is given.

This system of keeping the meals well apart is kept up for a number of weeks and nothing is given between meals except water. Milk is strictly forbidden between meals.

Everything that is wholesome and that the child likes should be served at meal time, and other necessary foods served in an attractive form to tempt his appetite.

The main idea in the above treatment is to have the youngster develop a natural appetite.

When Time Almost Flies

"I have had so many troubles, my dear, that this year I have grown six months older."—Pete Mole (Paris).

Maqua Night At Y. W. C. A.

Wednesday evening was "Maqua Night" at the Business Girls' Supper at the Y. W. C. A. this week, and it was thoroughly enjoyable. The stage had been turned into a tiny grove of trees, with a tiny camp fire burning—electrically and therefore safely—and the piano was covered with beautiful old paisley shawls, cleverly suggesting a rosy sunset.

The eleven girls who attended Camp Maqua the past summer and the year before, in colorful and most becoming gipsy costumes represented Camp life at Maqua, with Miss Van Etten the Queen gipsy. There was also Mrs. Mae Perkins, Miss Dorothy Kennedy, Miss Mildred Mesinger, Miss Matilda Martin, Miss Alice McLaughlin (Mickey), Miss Alma Tyler, Miss Jean Goodsell, Miss Lillian Herdman (Billy), Mrs. Williams (nee Miss Salzman) and Miss Ethel Salzman in the group. After enjoying the excellent supper, and several songs led by Mickey playing the banjo, Mrs. Rowland, chairman of the program committee of the Business Girls' Club, announced that beginning next Wednesday evening there would be five classes for the Business Girls, directly following the supper, and this set of classes will continue until November 16th. They include a class in leather work, one in making crocheted hats, one in ukulele playing and a discussion class which will be divided into four groups and a class in dramatics of some sort.

Then the Maqua girls took over the evening, grouping themselves in the miniature grove, making an exceptionally picturesque appearance. There were several Maqua songs sung, with Mickey's banjo as the accompaniment. Then in a pleasant conversational way Miss Mesinger and Miss Martin, with hosts from Billy and the other girls, told of the happenings at Maqua during the past summer when they attended the Business Girls' Conference there. It sounded most alluring, and the well camouflaged "reports" were full of interest. While this was going on Mickey took note of the fact that there were several new girls present, and finding that some of them did not know about Maqua, she told attractively about the camp life there and the joys of the Business Girls' Conference. The happy and profitable evening closed with a couple of Maqua parting songs.

Talk to Rotary on Electric Wiring

Feeling To Build a Fine House and Then Shaking on Cost of Wiring and Equipment Says Speaker at Weekly Rotary Luncheon.

The speaker at the Rotary luncheon this week was Robert J. Harder, who gave a vocational talk on Electrical supplies and equipment. Mr. Harder said he was unable to go back to ancient history in developing the subject, as electrical supplies have no ancient history, but he proceeded to expose and explain some popular fallacies, including the fallacy of building a fine house and then shanking on the cost of wiring and equipment by accepting inferior material and installation. Many persons think an underwriter's certificate is a certificate of quality. It is not, and is merely a certificate that the installation is such as to afford a reasonable degree of assurance that it will not set your house on fire. Often people claim in the number of openings, saying they can connect up temporarily with a cord. This is as sensible as to have one water tap and connect it with a bath room by pieces of hose. Quality of material and workmanship should be considered when comparing bids for wiring, and too often this is not done, resulting in an unsatisfactory and ultimately expensive installation.

A considerable part of the meeting was devoted to discussing the coming concert by the Marine Band next Wednesday afternoon and evening and arranging for the sale of tickets. Tickets were distributed and now every Rotarian is equipped to meet all demands. In addition to the places noted in the advertising literature, tickets are for sale by E. Winter's Sons, Wall street, and may also be procured at the desk in the Governor Clinton.

Set New Record In Pull Contest

Two Teams Exceed Last Year's Mark for Heavy Class—64 Teams Entered Eight Events.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 13.—During season of 1927, horse pulling contests were conducted at eight fairs and 64 teams competed; two teams exceeded the previous record for heavy teams in New York state. Prince and Dan, a pair of dapple grey percherons owned by Henry Putt of Knapp's Creek, set a new high mark for the heavy class with a pull of 3,050 pounds on the draw bar at the Little Valley Fair on September 15, and the other high record for the season was made by Maude and Ted, a pair of black percherons owned by W. J. Marble of Sardinia. This team pulled 3,000 pounds at the Hamburg Fair, September 3.

Both of these teams exceeded the 1926 record of 2,900 pounds made by Duke and Molly of the Rochester Carting Co., Rochester, N. Y. The pulling record for the light class established at Hamburg in 1926 still stands at 2,900 pounds made by Prince and Charles, a team of black percherons owned by Frank Briggs of East Aurora, N. Y.

Fruit Damaged By Rain and Wind

Fruit growers in Marlborough and in other sections report the heavy rain and wind Wednesday night caused considerable damage, many barrels of apples being blown from the trees and branches broken off. The black frost of Tuesday night also did much damage.

GOVERNOR CLINTON CHIEF ESTABLISHES REPUTATION.

Robert Roux, the French chef at the Governor Clinton Hotel, has established a wonderfully fine reputation in Kingston during the two months he has been here. He came to Kingston from the Hendrick Hudson at Troy and before coming to America was employed in the Marquetry, in Paris. Former Mayor Hyman of New York, who is a frequent guest at the Governor Clinton, spent the past week end there, remaining for three days. Although the tourist season is approaching an end, 50 persons had to be turned away Tuesday night, both the main building and the annex being filled. With the waning of the tourist season and the opening of the society season in Kingston, more attention will be paid to catering to local parties. With two private dining rooms, the hotel is admirably fitted to this purpose and had already entertained a number of local dinner parties. Menus and prices for ordinary meals will be set forth in advertisements in The Freeman from time to time.

Judge Clearwater Named by Smith

Governor Smith Appoints Him Delegate to Represent New York State at National Conference on Taxation at Toronto.

Governor Alfred E. Smith has appointed Judge Clearwater a delegate to represent the state of New York at the Twentieth National Conference on Taxation which begins at Toronto, Canada, on Friday. According to the New York State Bar Association, the judge was the first lawyer of any distinction in the United States to call attention to the unconstitutional and extortionate system of extraterritorial taxation existing in forty-five of the states of the United States. This he did in his report to the State Bar Association on the 23rd of January, 1926, a report which astounded the bar of the country. In it the judge made a careful analysis of the system of taxation in this country and demonstrated that the per capita tax burden had risen from $22.73 in 1913 to $304.23 in 1924, and he charged that the most iniquitous extortionate branch of taxation was the extraterritorial tax imposed upon the estates of decedents. He marshalled an immense amount of statistics of which two examples will suffice:

1. If a man dies owning stock in the New York Central Railroad Company, his estate pays not only the federal transfer tax but the transfer tax in six states.
2. If the decedent owned stock in the Union Pacific Railroad Company, his estate paid the federal transfer tax and a tax in eleven states.

Not only does the estate of the decedent pay a tax upon the value of the property owned by him in the taxing state, but his entire estate is taxed in all the states through which the railroad runs. The judge showed by specific instances that there had been many cases in which an entire estate aggregating upwards of one million dollars utterly had been destroyed by this system of taxation. The result of this attack by Judge Clearwater has been a gentlemen's agreement between the taxing officers of eight states to abandon this multiple system. The judge, however, is not content with this gentlemen's agreement, and insists that the entire system be uprooted and in this he has the endorsement and approval not only of Governor Smith but of the judges of the court of appeals of this state and of the Supreme Court of the United States. The latter court in a recent decision fully sustained Judge Clearwater's view and in the appeal of the executors of Henry Frick, the multimillionaire, unanimously denounced the system of extraterritorial and multiple tax as unconstitutional. The subject is one that thoroughly will be discussed at the Toronto conference.

KINGSTON AUTOIST HAS MISHAP AT SAUGERTIES

Hitting the edge of a curb and having a defective front axle on the car, was the cause of an accident near the Standard Oil filling station on Main street, Saugerties, Wednesday noon. The car, a Durant sedan, driven by Arthur Chipp of this city, one of the delegates to the Epworth League convention in the M. E. Church, was coming out of Washington avenue into Main street, when it hit the curb. The blow snapped off one of the wheels. The car started diagonally across the street, and a defective axle was the cause of the other front wheel coming off. The car finally landed on the sidewalk near the filling station. Neither Chipp nor his companion were hurt. The car was towed to Oscar Snyder's garage for repairs.

AIREDALE PUTS UP FIGHT OF HIS LIFE WITH BIG GRIZZLY

Dog's Fierce Attack Saves Man in Combat With Hungry Bear.

Winthrop.—To the sagacity and courage of Red, his sire and dog, Bert Ward, trapper and outfitter, of Reed, Alberta, owes his life.

Red put up such a successful battle against a full-grown grizzly bear that his master was able to kill the intruder and also to add a fine pelt to his collection.

Trail Riders Tell Story.

Trail riders, returning to this city after a sojourn in the vicinity of Field, B. C., brought the story out of the mountain wilds. Ward, who was building a cabin for the trail-riding party, had made camp at a point up the Ottertail river, some fifteen miles from Field. A huge grizzly invaded the camp, dodged the dog, entered the cook tent, and stole a cooking ham, lifting it out of boiling water without upsetting the pot containing it. Red attacked the bear, which at that time did not show fight, but made for the woods. The barking of the dog attracted the men to the camp and the loss of the ham was discovered. The next morning the bear returned.

Red Was on Guard and Gave Battle.

for more food, but Red was on guard and gave battle. Ward, again attracted by the dog's barking, rushed to the camp carrying his heavy double-barreled ax with him. Before his sword the angry bear had upset the stove and generally made a wreck of the camp. She rushed at Ward, but the dog hit her so severely on the leg that she turned on Red. Ward struck at the bear with the ax and succeeded in wounding her in the face.

Dog Rushes Again.
Then the dog rushed, grabbed the infuriated bear by the throat and hung on despite blows from her claws. Ward, rushing in behind, struck the bear again. She shook the dog free and turned on the mountaineer, but the dog returned to the attack with such ferocity that the bear again turned to him.

Other men came running to the scene, but the bear charged each one as he appeared, only to be attacked again and again by the dog. Finally she gave up the battle and started for the river, with the dog still pursuing her. The bear swam across the Ottertail, but fell down on the opposite bank.

When Ward and his men crossed the river they found the bear dead and the dog standing over the body.

Recent Removal of Bodies From Graves

St. Louis, Mo.—When she went to visit the burial places of her husband and her sister, in the old St. Paul Congregational cemetery on Gravois road, she found the bodies had been dug up and the headstones had fallen into the empty graves. Mrs. Mary Uthoff of 7380 Maple boulevard, Maplewood, said, in deposition filed in Circuit court. She is suing the Evangelical St. Paul congregation for $5,000 damages in connection with the alleged removal of the bodies.

The site of the cemetery was abandoned a year ago, so that buildings might be erected there, and the congregation arranged for a new site on Watson road, near Rock Hill road, in St. Louis county. Mrs. Uthoff contends in her suit that the bodies of her husband and her sister were disinterred without her knowledge and consent, and that she has no definite proof that the bodies were actually taken to the new site.

Wager Won by Death

Lycargus Pictured as Fan of "Hard Liquor"

King Lycargus, reputed founder of the Spartan constitution, is given the honor by tradition of being one of the world's first prohibitionists, says a writer in the Kansas City Star. In fact, several ancient historians say he was such a good thing that his subjects could not tolerate him.

Though Pindar even in his time wrote that there was the greatest variance in the recorded accomplishments of Lycargus, on the following story several earlier writers seem to agree. After returning from extensive travels, including Egypt, Spain, Crete, India and Libya, Lycargus introduced several drastic reforms in Sparta, among these being the abolishment of the worship of Bacchus.

Wine and drunkenness were almost the constants of religion then, consequently many of the people thought there must be a mistake on somebody's part in attempting to enforce such sudden sobriety, and insurrection resulted. Lycargus saw that emergency measures were necessary and visiting the high priestess he commanded her to express his reform views in oracular form.

Whether she was one who was not averse to an occasional cup herself will never be known, but tradition says that those in the temple soon heard the oracle's mystic voice declare "No more wine shall be drunk in Thrace," adding after a small but highly significant pause, "so long as Lycargus is on the throne." The Thracians then submitted, but shortly thereafter Lycargus died. The date of his reign is uncertain, but most historians place it in the Ninth century B. C.

Truthfulness in Child

A way to promote a virtue is to give the child the reputation for having it. We all show unmistakable tendencies to live up to labels fastened upon us; if the child gets the idea that he is a liar, he is likely to tell lies. On the other hand, if he believes that he is a truth-teller his habits will conform to that picture. Better still, of course, is to let him live in an atmosphere of truth. If a child is brought up in a home where truth telling is regarded as a simple matter of course, he is likely to develop into a truth-telling child.—Winthrop D. Lane in the Delinquent Magazine.

Are You "Knowledgeable"?

Europe has a new word to play with. Every year or so it coins one or picks up an old one used in a new way. This year it is the thing to use "knowledgeable" in lieu of "learned" or words of similar meaning. One may be "knowledgeable" in music, horses, politics, women or anything else.

Follow the Arrow to a Better Gasoline and Oil for Your Motor Car.

What High Compression Means To You

The principle of high compression is readily understood. The tighter you pack the powder charge in a muzzle loading gun, the greater the force behind the bullet. Similarly, the tighter gasoline vapor and air are packed or compressed in the combustion chamber (the space between the head of the cylinder and the top of the piston) before ignition, the greater the power derived from the explosion.

Increasing compression therefore simply means decreasing the size of the combustion space, which may be accomplished mechanically or through the formation of carbon.

In terms of you and your car, higher compression means a more powerful and flexible car. In short, a performance impossible with lower compression and the use of ordinary gasoline.

THE BLOUSE BECOMES IMPORTANT—NOVELTY FABRICS AND STITCHING ADD TO ITS EFFECTIVENESS

New York—It seems rather a long time since the blouse has provided sufficient interest to be the theme of a fashion writer's song. The blouse, it is true, has been a means of camouflage for a time, but it has been with us for some time. One had formed the habit, though, of definite coupling such a tunic with a par-skirt and its accompanying sweater at the same counter, or at least in the same department. Of course, it is possible to wear a variety of blouses with one skirt, and so the blouse again holds up its head and becomes an important member of the clothes group.

Tunics have lengthened until they threaten to become dress length. Some are perfectly straight except for a slight drapery at one side of the waist-line. Others subscribe to the circular Russian tunic. With some of the French tailored suits, tuck-in blouses are worn, but these seem unimportant—until spring, at least. It is the tunic of various lengths that is of current interest, both as a means of establishing an ensemble, and as a means of introducing a colorful and often very elaborate fabric.

The KITCHEN CABINET

It is a satisfactory working arrangement where the husband gives his wife some judicious Saturday and the wife gives her husband some judicious cookery.

SEASONABLE FOODS

The individual ramekins are just adapted for all kinds of soups, scalloped and deviled mixtures.

Sweetbreads in Ramekins.—Clean and parboil a pair of sweetbreads and cut into cubes. Melt two tablespoonsful of butter, add the same of flour and pour on gradually one cupful of chicken stock. Heat the sweetbread in the sauce and add one-fourth of a cupful of cream and one-half teaspoonful of beef extract. Season with salt and pepper and lemon juice. Fill the ramekin dishes, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are brown.

Curried Sweetbreads.—Prepare the sweetbreads by soaking them in cold water to which a tablespoonful of lemon juice or vinegar is added; parboil in this water for five minutes, drain and drop into cold water. When cold cut into circular pieces. Fry a sliced onion in two tablespoonfuls of olive oil or butter until lightly colored. Add two tablespoonfuls of flour, cook until well blended, then add one cupful of chicken stock and one-half cupful of cream; cook until thick. Strain, season with salt, pepper, a teaspoonful of curry powder and a bit of tarragon vinegar or lemon juice. Cook the sauce until well blended, add the sweetbreads and turn into ramekins and bake thirty minutes.

Lemon Souffles.—Take six eggs, yolks and whites separated and well beaten, then add one cupful of sugar to the beaten yolks, the juice and grated rind of a lemon, fold in the stiffly beaten whites and place in a buttered baking dish set into hot water. Bake until firm—about forty minutes. Serve with lemon sauce, as dessert.

Scalloped Fish.—Take any cooked fish, flake it and put a layer in a buttered ramekin, add a spoonful of seasoned white sauce, a few drops of onion juice, more fish and sauce, seasoning well, finish with buttered crumbs and bake until well heated and the crumbs are brown.

Potato Crop Further Reduced

By Midsummer, Leaf Hoppers and Blight Killed Many Vines in New York State—More Blight, Black Rot and Cabbage Indications.

In spite of the increased acreage of potatoes in New York state this year, the production will be smaller than in 1926, according to a state-federal crop report just issued from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

Throughout the early portion of the season, the outlook for a large production of potatoes was good. The acreage was increased over what it was a year ago; most of the fields were planted on time and the growing weather during the early part of the season promoted good growth.

Midsummer, however, became very dry and remained so until, with the aid of leaf hoppers, and some blight, the great majority of the vines had been killed before October 1 and the growth of the tubers below ground stopped.

With a part of the Long Island potato acreage still to be harvested and with the upstate potato harvest just getting under way, on October 1st this year, production is placed at 29,350,000 bushels compared with 29,016,000 bushels last year and 23,720,000 in 1925 and 34,273,000 bushels, the average of the past five years.

Five States Show Decrease. The combined production of Pennsylvania, Maine, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, the states which compete most strongly with the late crop in New York is estimated at 136,841,000 bushels compared with 145,826,000 bushels in the same states last year, and the five-year average of 159,975,000 bushels.

The United States potato crop is estimated at 354,757,000 bushels compared with 356,123,000 bushels last year. For the country as a whole the potato crop is about the same as the average production during the last five years, but the crop is substantially below the five-year average in the North Central and Northeastern States and far above the western average in nearly all of the western states. It is these groups of states which furnish the winter supply.

Bean Crop Bigger. The New York State bean production promises to be greater than a year ago. 1,282,000 bushels compared with 1,145,000 bushels. The quality this year is much better than last. Michigan has the promise of 6,293,000 bushels compared with 6,624,000 bushels in 1926, also of better quality. Colorado, 2,119,000 bushels compared with 1,086,000 bushels in 1926; and California 4,354,000 bushels compared with 5,460,000 bushels in 1926.

The total United States production of beans for this year is now estimated at 13,434,000 bushels compared with 17,135,000 bushels last year and the five-year average of 16,300,000 bushels.

Buckwheat Indications. Although a large percentage of the buckwheat appeared to be late on September 1 it improved and matured so rapidly during September that the state production is now estimated at 4,736,000 bushels. Last year, 3,537,000 bushels were harvested and in 1925, 4,511,000 bushels. The national crop of buckwheat is now estimated at 15,893,000 bushels compared with 12,922,000 bushels last year, and 13,800,000 bushels the average of the past five years.

Cabbage Yield Large. The weather has been such through the west central part of the state where the greatest percentage of the domestic cabbage is grown that the yield per acre is exceeding the earlier estimates. Much of this cabbage is being made into kraut in the numerous factories in the Ontario county section.

The Danish cabbage in New York is still in the making to a large extent. Some has already been shipped but part of it was planted late and needs considerable more moisture to mature a good crop. This is the month when storage cabbage usually makes its greatest growth. Conditions on October 1 confirmed earlier reports of an excellent crop unless unfavorable growing conditions prevail the rest of the season. Continued dry weather and killing frosts are most to be feared.

ASHOKAN. Oct. 13.—The M. E. Ladies' Aid Society will hold a hot chicken supper in the Ashokan M. E. Church hall on Wednesday night, October 26. A Spartan radio concert will be given during the evening.

At the annual election of officers of the M. E. Ladies' Aid Society, held in the church hall on Thursday, October 6, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Miss Olive Barclay; vice-president, Mrs. V. R. Merrifield; secretary, Miss May Bogart; treasurer, Mrs. Benjamin Van Steenburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Smith, Mrs. Newton Smith and Mrs. Mary Russell took dinner with May Bogart and mother on Wednesday.

Old Census Taking. Nopitain, chief of the Chichimecan tribe of Indians that once inhabited the valley of Mexico, devised a simple plan for taking the census of his subjects. Under his system no census-taker trod upon the newly washed front porch of the careful housewife, leaving footprints in sticky clay. Nor did the agent inquire into the private matter of the family head. Instead, each subject placed a small stone for each member of his family. Carriers then collected the stones and hauled them to an open field, where they were counted and placed in heaps. Twelve of these heaps have been discovered by scientists and a count of the stones indicates the Chichimecan tribe contained 3,200,000 members.

NEW PALM

New Palm, Oct. 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Harp have returned from their wedding trip, motorizing to Montreal, Canada, and the New England States. They will reside on Eltinge avenue.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church met with Mrs. Amos Roosa on North Chestnut street Tuesday evening.

The strongest lyceum course that has ever been presented in New Palm will be the offering this coming season at the Normal School.

The course consists of the following seven numbers: October 13, Little Trip; October 21, Jean Gros Marionettes; November 21, Vithjalmur Steffensen (Artistic Explorer); January 9, Fenwick Newell Company; February 8, Schubert Quartet; March 1, Thomas Skehill; April, date not set, Normal School Glee Club.

David Fontarade has concluded his fifty-sixth season in the employment of the Smiley family. He began this long unbroken service with Alfred K. Smiley at Mohawk before Minnawaska was even thought of, and has now for many years been head chef at Minnawaska, in which capacity he has rendered most significant and efficient service.

Deborah G. Hastings has been teaching the Smiley grandchildren, Josephine and Boris, at Minnawaska since April. She came from the teaching staff of the Calvert School in Baltimore and in her teaching adheres closely to the Calvert system.

Dorothy Plumb of Gardiner spent last Saturday with her grandmother, Mrs. George Benson, in New Palm. Miss Bennett of the art department at the Normal is to attend the wedding of Miss Edith Smith at Lynbrook, Long Island. Miss Smith is the roommate of Miss Bennett at Syracuse University.

Mr. and Mrs. Malloy and family of Newburgh visited Miss Eleanor Malloy at the Agonion house last Sunday.

Miss Rich, demonstration teacher of the fifth grade at the Normal, left the school Wednesday afternoon for a short visit to the Potsdam Normal School where she will deliver a few lectures on primary reading.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hardekopf of Ridgewood, N. J., and Mrs. Anna Hardekopf visited relatives in town over last week end. Mrs. Hardekopf recently returned from a ten weeks' tour of Europe.

Madame Kokoszynska dined with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Syckle at Sunnyside on Sunday. Mme Kokoszynska has recently become a citizen of the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Freer and daughter, Edna, of Poughkeepsie, and Miss McCord of Newburgh spent last week end with Frank Gilmac and family.

Prominent among the outdoor pleasures this season at Minnawaska has been horseback riding under the supervision of James E. Fout. Several interesting exhibitions of equitation were given this year the same as last year, and under the same popular leadership. The preparations for a golf course which were begun more than a year ago, have been halted temporarily because of the uncertainty as to where the new road will pass through the Traps neighborhood.

The Rev. J. R. Halmshaw will be out of town most of this week on church business.

Egypt A. Dullio attended the Danbury Fair on Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Emma Litta has returned from a two weeks' vacation.

Miss Mary Yenne was a visitor in Poughkeepsie on Tuesday. The students of the Seven B grade accompanied by Miss Lounsbury, one of their teachers, hiked to Mount Rest Monday afternoon after school.

PEACE AND HARMONY PREVAILS IN OLIVE

Olive Bridge, Oct. 13.—The 1901 Democrats who gathered at the Republican open caucus to see the big fight on Monday evening, were very much disappointed as the fight was put over for 100 years and all were invited to be present at that time.

Peace and harmony prevailed throughout the caucus. There was no opposition for any candidate and a strong ticket was put before the voters of Olive.

For supervisor, C. A. Lyons; town clerk, Elson Oakley; town superintendent, J. W. Keider were named for reelection. Each candidate has made good in the past two years and they have fulfilled the duties of their respective offices with credit to themselves and the voters and taxpayers of the town.

The balance of the ticket is composed of men who are qualified for the office for which they were nominated, and the whole ticket should be supported by the voters of the town.

For thirty years previous to the past two years Olive was ruled and run by the Democratic party, with no improvements. There have been move improved roads in the past two years, yes, ten times more than in the twenty years controlled by the Democratic party. Taxes last year were $10,000 less in the town than in any previous year with a guarantee by the worthy supervisor of less yet this year. His administration for the past two years will go down in the history of Olive as one of the most successful the town ever had.

The town roads in general are in better condition. With the heavy trade of today and 120 miles of town roads in the town and $9,000 to do all the work, it is a very hard proposition to keep all roads in good condition.

The town clerk's office is well located and the most suitable room for the office the town ever had. Republicans submit the ticket to the voters of the town and ask their support.

Caldwell, N. J.—Friends of Tom Washington, professional golfer, assume he made a record of some sort or another. He made a hole in one seventeen times, getting two of them in one day.

Coin of Full Value. When it leaves the mint a $5 gold piece contains exactly $5 worth of gold. The value of the alloy is insignificant.

Atlantic City—Another Miss America has just been chosen at this site of the annual beauty pageant. The name has been given to a prize winning Plymouth Rock hen.

Orange, N. J.—Gene Tunney, who once termed his friend, Eddie Egan of Denver a "regular scientist," seems to have been correct in more than one respect. Eddie, who was a star boxer at Yale and in Olympic games, has married Margaret Colgate, heiress to millions, made in soap. The marriage which was on October 1, at Saranac Lake, has just been disclosed.

Vienna—Having rejected possibilities of becoming Queen of the garter, Princess Irene, 23 year old sister of former King George of Greece, is to marry Prince Christian Schamburg-Lippe of Denmark. Once reported engaged to King Boris, she said she would never marry into a Balkan royal family because Carol of Rumania deserted her sister.

New York—Men are advised by Elinor Glyn to stand for nomination on the part of their wives. In a speech at a banquet she said: "A wife who receives a sound husband for a meanness loves her husband all the more."

Salvation Army's Mission, to Serve

In Now Operating in Eighty-one Countries and Colonies All Over the World—Some of Its Activities. The Salvation Army is now operating in eighty-one countries and colonies. The participating elements of service in every community are:

First: Its simple remedy for misery and despair.

Second: Its thorough provision to meet community problems to other organizations.

Third: Its amazing power to foster good citizenship.

Fourth: It is a form of insurance. It has the confidence of those it serves. Only a part of its functions may be of value to a given community at this time, or at any time, but the protection of their existence cannot be denied. There is no community and no individual immune from disaster.

Sixteen Major Activities.

The sixteen major activities of the Salvation Army are:

Relief of poor—Practical assistance for those who drift into poverty.

Rescue and maternity homes—To shield and care for the girl whose innocence has been betrayed, give her a fresh start on the right road and keep her and her baby together.

Young women's residences—In which girls of small incomes may obtain good food and clean, attractive quarters at American plan prices within their reach.

Industrial homes—Men who have become derelicts are here restored to the wage-earning class.

Working men's homes—Where a poor man may find a clean bed at a nominal price and surroundings that make for his moral and spiritual regeneration.

Fresh air camps—To give outings to mothers and children of the crowded city sections.

Christmas dinners—Furnished to poor families and needy individuals.

Free employment bureaus—To obtain jobs for the unemployed.

Prison work—Caring for the families of prisoners and rehabilitating released prisoners in respectable society.

Juvenile industrial and agricultural schools—Where physically and morally sound citizens are developed from delinquent boys and girls, and where orphans are reared and educated.

Slum settlements—Located in the poorest districts, where all forms of temporal and spiritual help are given to the families of the district.

Missing friends' bureau—A bureau which specializes on search for persons—sons, daughters, wives, other relatives—in any part of the civilized world.

Training colleges—They train young men and women as officers in the Salvation Army.

Work among service men—Continuance of the well-known war record of the Salvation Army among soldiers and sailors.

Field and evangelistic work—Preaching the gospel in language suited to the simplest of men, with its practical application.

Emergency department—A relief branch available for immediate service in the event of disaster.

He Wounded Her Away

By EDGAR T. MOWFORT

(Copyright.)

DOCTOR NEWMAN leaned back in his revolving office chair and looked keenly at the young girl in front of him.

"Peggy Hamilton," he said, "you're not a very happy looking person. If I were Paul Warden I wouldn't feel a bit satisfied."

"That's just it," she burst out. "I don't know whether we can ever marry or not, and I feel I ought to give him his freedom, but he won't take it."

"And why can't you marry?"

Peggy hesitated a moment, then: "You see, I'm the sole support of Aunt Emma. I've lived with her ever since father died, and she's kept house and I've supplied the money, so I don't see how I can go off and leave her—she hasn't a cent of her own. And Paul simply can't support her. Of course, I could go on working after we marry, but—but we want to keep house."

"Sure you do," agreed the doctor heartily. "You ought to. How old is this aunt of yours?"

"Forty-two."

"She was a radiant woman last time I saw her," he said reminiscently. "Why doesn't she get to work and do something?"

"She's never worked in her life. Besides, she isn't equipped, and it's all she can do to keep the house straight and attend her little bridge club meetings. She's really very busy all the time."

"Hum-m-m! Well, that's about all for today. Come back tomorrow and I'll give you a report on those X-rays. I don't believe you're seriously ill, but I do think you're going to need treatment. Run along now and get a good night's rest. Report as soon as you leave the office tomorrow; about 5:15."

The next day Peggy's usually happy face was drawn with anxiety, and her big blue eyes were clouded with worry as she hurried through her work. When at last she put the cover on her typewriter and wended her way through the homegoing crowds to Doctor Newman's office she was shocked at the gravity of his expression.

"It's not so bad," he said, but every line in his kind face screamed at her: "You're a desperately sick girl. Maybe you'll pull through, but most of them don't." He continued, calmly enough, however: "Now, I've talked to your aunt and your fiancé was up here this morning, and we've all three agreed that you're going away to another climate for a few months for a complete rest and change."

"Oh, but doctor, I can't. I can't lose my job. And Aunt Emma. What about her?"

"Leave it to me. I'll promise not to let her suffer. Now, you're going tomorrow, see? I've notified your employer and it's all fixed up."

The next day Peggy left, too anxious to worry much about her aunt's future, or anything else. Paul's manner was reassuring, however.

"You'll soon be well and then we'll get married, dearest," he said, holding her close. "You'll write every day, won't you?"

At first Peggy was dreadfully homesick and worried, but after awhile she grew accustomed to the strange little place where she had so suddenly landed and soon her cheeks were plump and pink and there came a lift in her laughter that would have driven her fiancé wild with delight.

Her aunt's letters were noncommittal; she was getting along well and was exceedingly busy. That was all they said, and Peggy read a certain reserve between the lines and wondered whether her aunt were not offended at suddenly being left practically penniless and alone. After two months she could stand it no longer, and without notifying anyone she took a train back to Harrison and rushed straight to her aunt's home. At the door she was greeted by a colored maid in a white apron.

"Where's my Aunt Emma?" asked Peggy in surprise.

"Lord, honey, she's down at de store. She ain't here in day time."

"What store?"

"She went in partnership in dat Style Shoppe and she de busiest woman ever you seed. Yas'm, she also is. I heard her tellin' somebody last night 'bout how she waste her life before doin' housework she could 'a' hired done for nine dollars a week when she could 'a' been earning fifty."

In a daze Peggy walked in and called Doctor Newman.

"Feel better?" he asked over the wire. "I hope I didn't scare you too much, child; you weren't really sick; just run down and breaking your heart because you thought you couldn't marry. So it was the only way I could think of weaning you from your aunt. And, you see, she's much happier now. . . . By the way, when you going to be married? Think I ought to have an invitation, don't you?"

"I could simply hug you," sang Peggy over the telephone.

"All right, come along," laughed the doctor. "I've no objection."

And a few hours later, starry-eyed, radiant Peggy actually did.

Just Plain Dumb

"What sort of a chap is Jack, dear?" "Well, when we were together last night the lights went out and he spent the rest of the evening repairing the fuse."

Osterhoudts Are Awarded Damages

Fred Osterhoudt Awarded $1,100 by Supreme Court Jury for Injuries Received When Hit by Automobile—Father Reimbursed Also.

The jury in the negligence action brought by Benjamin W. Osterhoudt of the town of Rochester and his son, Fred, against Sam Rothberg and his son, Philip, brought in a verdict in the Supreme court on Wednesday afternoon awarding $1,100 to the son, Fred, for his injuries, and $203.50 to reimburse Mr. Osterhoudt for the amount he had expended in hospital and doctor's bills for his son's recovery. Judge William D. Cunningham appeared for the Osterhoudts while the Rothbergs were represented by William D. Brinler and Roscoe V. Elsworth. Attorney Elsworth's motion to set aside the verdicts was denied by Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck.

The actions grew out of the injuries received by Fred Osterhoudt, in September of 1924, while riding his bicycle up the hill on the country road leading from Rochester Center to the Ellenville-Kingston state road.

According to the testimony there is a turn in the road and Rothberg, driving his father's Dodge touring car, came around the turn at a fast rate of speed and his car struck the bicycle on which Osterhoudt, who was thirteen years old at that time, was riding. The boy was badly injured.

The Osterhoudts brought suit against Sam Rothberg, as owner of the automobile, and against Philip Rothberg, his son, who drove the car. The boy sued for $1,500 damages while Mr. Osterhoudt asked for a verdict of $203.50 which would cover the amount of money he had expended for hospital and doctor bills.

YOUTH WHO DISLOCATED VERTEBRAE RECOVER.

New Paltz, Oct. 13.—Milton Gregory returned home from Kingston City Hospital on Saturday. His condition on returning is far better than was believed possible, even by the most optimistic, when he was taken there nine weeks before, suffering from dislocation between the fifth and sixth vertebrae. New Paltz people can recall no time when such a sudden gloom fell over the community from an accident to a single one of its members as that on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 27, after Milton's accident while diving.

Such an accident was considered by most New Paltz people equivalent to death and Thursday morning when the news came that Dr. Chandler had said there was a bare chance of his recovery it seemed almost too good to be true. From day to day he continued to improve and now he is really home again with only a little time needed to complete his recovery.

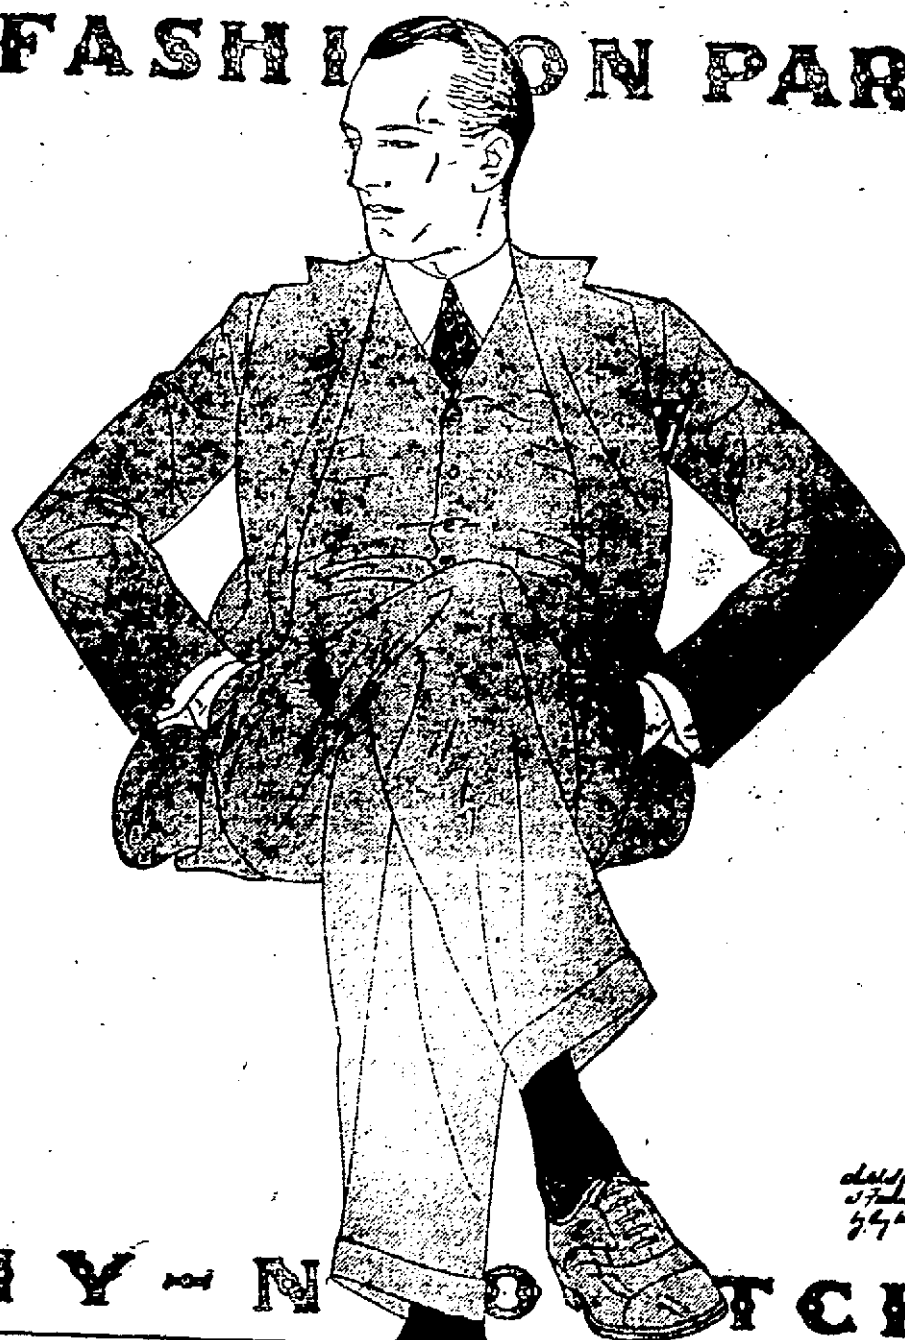

The recovery is due first, perhaps, to Dr. Chandler's skill, then to Milton's courage and nerve and willingness to do exactly as the doctors wished without fretting. The prompt action taken by Dr. Vanderlyn, the family physician, and Milton's wonderful physical condition were also important. The attitude taken by his father, mother and other relatives and friends probably played an important part, keeping him in the cheerful state of mind which it is almost impossible to attain but is still so essential in bringing to pass this miracle of modern surgery.

All New Paltz is rejoicing with the Gregory family.

Kea Bouman Is Unique Star

Kea Bouman.

Kea Bouman of Holland really is a unique figure in the group of international female net stars who have invaded the States this season. Others may have a more unusual name—it is hard to judge of that, for Miss Bouman has not been seen at her best in America—but she is unique in that she is the first woman from the Netherlands to become an international tennis figure.

The history of her career is extraordinary in many respects. Contrary to that of other international stars, there is no professional tutor in the background of her early tennis. In fact, she was champion of Holland for five years before she had her first lesson from a pro.

Her father, an ardent devotee of the game and one of Holland's veteran racketeers, taught her the fundamentals of play when she was still a schoolgirl and her first national championship was won while she was in the junior ranks. But all of this time Miss Bouman did not take the game seriously as Suzanne Lenglen or Helen Wills would understand the term. She played never more than two or three months out of the year, and never on grass until three years ago, when she went to Wimbledon for the first time.

Even now, when she is putting more concentration into her effort, Miss Bouman does not expect to get more than six months play out of the year. "It is impossible in Holland," she said when asked about this point. "We have no covered courts in our country, although I am told there are to be two this next year. We lay away our rackets in the fall not to touch them again until March."

K. H. S. Plays St. Stephen's

Saturday afternoon the K. H. S. Varsity meets the St. Stephen's Varsity on the Fair Grounds.

Kingston high's team has been out on the Athletic Field every night in preparation for the coming battle. St. Stephen's has a strong team and a fast game should result.

A. A. Treasurer.

Arthur Scott has been appointed student treasurer for the Athletic Association for this year. It is the treasurer's duty to secure money to finance the inter-school and inter-class athletics.

A. A. Play.

The K. H. S. Athletic Association is preparing for a play to be given in the Auditorium of the school about November 15.

Miss Byrne, teacher of elocution, although not prepared to announce a definite cast as yet, has the students practicing during every available period and outside of school hours.

The play this year is "William C. De Witt's 'Strongheart'." It deals with college life and the main interest centers around a college football game. Definite announcement as to the cast will probably be made next week.

The Wrong Place

One day Mrs. B. saw a bill collector coming and decided to hide. She stepped into a pantry out of sight of the door and let him knock and knock. Finally he gave up and went away to return another day.

The next time he called Mrs. B. was ready with her payment and went to the door.

Just as he was leaving the agent called back: "If you ever want to hide from me again choose some better place than the pantry. The mirror in your buffet showed me just where you were."

Precept From Sydney

Ban Johnson Ready to Quit

Chicago, Oct. 13 (A.P.)—His "house in order", Ban Johnson, stormy petrel of organized baseball, is ready to turn over the keys of his 27 year old office of president of the American League next Monday, or fifteen days before he had originally planned.

Johnson gave no reason for his decision to speed up his resignation, his parting message dwelling on the future of baseball.

On Monday the board of directors of the league, Frank J. Navin of Detroit, Clark Griffith of Washington, Phil Ball of St. Louis and Ben Shibe of Philadelphia, will meet with Johnson, at his call, to receive his formal resignation, to look over his records and possibly to choose his successor.

While no announcement of the probable candidates has been made, baseball writers are almost unanimous in their guess that it will be E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland Club.

"I am turning over the office in such shape that a child could read its history," President Johnson said. "My successor, whoever he may be, will have no trouble. I hope my successor will be a strong man for the good of the league. Without one, the league can easily go on the rocks. Factions form in all groups and one man must dominate all factions, and have real authority. A rubber stamp president will be a mistake. He must rule with an iron hand without regard for friendship or factions."

He also warned that the game "must be kept free from taint, away from gambling and syndicating."

Old Horse Kills Man Leading It to Grave

Atlantic City, N. J.—A sixty-eight-year-old farmer, Henry Ang of Linwood, was killed to death by a thirty-two-year-old horse, which he was leading to the grave he had dug for it. The horse kicked Ang in the stomach. Dr. Charles C. McNulty of Atlantic City, had just pronounced the period of the horse's usefulness at an end. This was the first time the animal had been out of his stall for several years.

One Backer of Runners Had Inside Information

There were three runners, and business in the ring was not very brisk. A quiet-looking little fellow walked up to one of the prosperous layers and asked the price of one of the runners. With a knowledgeable twinkle in his eye, and in a patronizing way, the bookie offered six to one.

"Very good, I'll take sixty pounds to ten."

Just before the "off," the backer returned, and asked if he could invest another tenner on the horse.

"Why, certainly, my son, and this time I'll lay you eighty."

The horse won and the backer went to draw his money.

"Say, young fellow, what made you fancy that horse?" asked the bookmaker, eyeing his client up and down in some amazement.

"Fancy? Oh, I had inside information."

"Inside information? Be blowed," snorted the bookie. "Do you know the horse you backed belongs to me?"

"Very likely," quietly retorted the backer. "But the other two runners belong to me."

Portland, Ore., boasts a recreation building with two billiard tables and twenty-eight bowling alleys.

Sale of Norman Platt, Brooklyn pitcher, to the New York Giants over the waiver route, was announced.

The Chicago Cubs have won 11 National league pennants and two world championships.

The youngest pitcher in the American league is Daniel Mac Fadden, age twenty, of the Red Sox.

Tulsa won the Western league pennant again this year for the third successive time.

Englishman Claims Golf Cure-All for Diseases

There is no disease for which golf is not good, declared Dr. Peter Fowler, an English physician, during a discussion by the British Medical association on "Sport, Its Use and Abuse." He averred that he had seen men with the worst forms of valvular disease kept alive by interest in golf and by the fresh air into which the game took them.

Other doctors advocated boxing, fencing, motor racing and yachting as aids to health. Dr. Adolphe Abrahams, brother of H. M. Abrahams, British Olympic star, testified that a healthy heart could not be damaged by any exercise of which a human being is capable.

Ruth's Longest Homer Made at Red Sox Park

The forty-fifth home run from the bat of George Herman "Babe" Ruth, of the champion New York Yankees, delivered in the sixth inning of the first game of the double-header with the Boston Red Sox on the latter's field, September 6, will be long remembered as one of the mightiest drives of the champion slugger of modern baseball. Experts figure the sphere covered fully 500 feet as it disappeared over the center field fence. It was the first time any batsman ever sent the ball over the fence out near the flagpole.

At the conclusion that much of the world remained undiscovered and to have conceived the design of reaching Asia by sailing west, which was the result in the discovery of America. Columbus was considered a fanatic by the people of that time whose density is almost unbelievable. In place seeking assistance for his adventure. Through the learned and priestly monks, he was able to get in touch with Queen Isabelle, who was induced to determine in the expedition, which was the discovery of the province of Cipango.

America Discovered.

Great difficulty was met in securing crews to make the journey in spite of the immunity offered to all criminals and riff raff, who would serve on the expedition. However, the boats were fitted and they set sail. During the voyage the men became frightened and began to murmur, but the explanation Columbus gave restored their tranquility and they soon saw birds, and all breathed and were happy. On October 11, 1492, Columbus perceived and pointed out a light ahead. It has been stated that American Indians had seen this light, hence North and South America, Columbus named his discovery the following day, San Salvador.

Other Periods.

Following the speaker's description of the task which Columbus had accomplished, which proved conclusively that he was the most persistent man known to the world, he dwelt at length on the period thereafter.

How the monarchs of Europe sought to profit in material things from the discovery; the corruption, and brutalities that followed up until about the period of 1600, were graphically told. The real development of America came after this period with the formation of colonies in Puritan Massachusetts and Catholic Maryland and with the colonists of Pennsylvania led by William Penn.

Progress continued in America but not until the blot of slavery had been erased from the escutcheon of America. In recent years the progress has been more marked in material prosperity, placing America at the head of those countries which a few years ago were far in advance.

An Important Question.

How long can American prosperity endure? was the most important question to be answered by every American today in the opinion of the speaker. Other nations as wealthy and as powerful as America have fallen and today we are the cynosure of the eyes of other countries, waiting to see if we shall meet with the same fate of the empires that have crumbled before. The utility of the navy today and the potency of aircraft, in explaining how easily it would be to wipe out an empire in twenty-four hours, despite the wealth and power of the empire was also outlined.

A Real Message.

The senator's message to the Knights of Columbus was to the effect that in this work-a-day world let not the material side entirely wipe out the spiritual in their lives, for the United States shall not endure if it is Godless. Other nations tell when the spiritual side was lost. A very bad sign was the falling off in church membership by denominations other than the Catholic Church which shows an increase. The speaker urged everyone to cogitate on this matter, that the destiny of America might be all that it should be and all that Christopher Columbus intended it should be, a beacon for all other nations, where God and not paganism prevail.

The toastmaster in closing the program asked that a rising vote of thanks be extended to all who helped to make the Columbus Day Celebration the great success it turned out to be.

Fearless Men Vanishing

Human courage is of four distinct types, of which one is fast disappearing under education and industrial life. That is the conclusion of Dr. C. M. Wilson, of St. Mary's hospital, London, based on his psychological studies of soldiers and of people in civil life. The vanishing variety, says Doctor Wilson in Popular Science Monthly, is that of the person who actually feels no fear—rare in this age where there are so many things to be afraid of. Other types are of those who feel fear but hide it; those who show it but resolutely carry on; and, lastly, those who are so frightened that their fear is transformed into a reckless frenzy, like that of the small boy who whips the bully who goaded him to desperation.

Honeydew

There are several kinds of honeydew. One kind is the excretion of aphids or plant lice. Another kind is produced when aphids, leaf hoppers and other insects puncture the leaves of trees. It is a sugar exudation from the leaves. Fungi, and even the ordinary processes of over-ripening, may also cause such sugar exudations. Bees, wasps, ants and many other insects are attracted by honeydew. Honey made by bees from honeydew is usually of poor quality, being dark and unpalatable. Entomologists say certain species of ants carefully tend colonies of plant lice for the sake of the honeydew they produce.—Park Under Magazine.

SCOLDING—
Seldom converts a sinner.
Is one thing God never did.
Never wins a child's affection.
Never keeps a husband loyal.
Is easy to begin and hard to quit.
Always makes trouble seem heavier.
Soon becomes the mother of bitterness.

PENCIL POINTS
Good housewives are pretty sure to have a pen brand of four.
It exasperates one to argue with an old dog, but he generally has money.
Find some way to make over our moral natures and we will be without vices.
A man holds out against a style of hat he doesn't like, for about three years.
Few things please a husband better than for his wife to be cordial to his friend.
There might be a new profession:
Breaking in new shoes for people whose feet hurt.

Build a handsome building in the lion people. It's worth while.

Self-love and self-respect can hardly reside in the same person. The lat-tion that no other accomplishment can

An amusing but considerably true

DAILY HELPS
Monday—A thousand years in Thy sight are but as yesterday.
Tuesday—The days of our age are three score years and ten.
Wednesday—It is not for you to know the times or the seasons.
Thursday—Even the youths shall faint and be weary.
Friday—They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength.
Saturday—Man goeth forth to his work and to his labor—until the evening!
Sunday—Now Lord what is my hope? Truly my hope is only in Thee.

MOTORISMS
It is dangerous to drive in a fog, especially if it's a mental one.
The hardest motor car to dodge is the one your wife insists on having.
Speeding past the traffic cop is fine,
fun if you don't get fined for your fun.
It is considered all right to blow your horn, provided it is attached to a speeding car.
The trouble with the drunken motorist is that he is not only full but running over.
Motor cops have remarked that very few of the speed fiends they arrest are on their way to church, or to work.—Boston Transcript.

FANCIES
Poets are like watches, a spring sets them going.
The easiest thing to grow in a garden is tired.
What nature says with flowers is, of course, "summer's here."
In the spring a young man's fancy runs to fancy hat bands.
"After the dull monotony of winter this is quite a relief," murmured the trees in May.—Boston Transcript.

Our Growing Population.
The following births have been reported to the board of health:
Mr. and Mrs. Everett M. Hopper, Yonkers, a son, Eugene Everett, at Kingston City Hospital.
Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Davis, Accord, a daughter, Gladys Delia, at Kingston City Hospital.
Mr. and Mrs. James W. Garry,

at Benedictine Hospital.
Mr. and Mrs. Elizabeth B. Mead,

Ruth's Relatives Give Thanks

Assiniboia, Ala., Oct. 12 (AP)—Sohchocked the voices of Mrs. J. O. Elder here today as she gave thanks that no harm had befallen her adventurous daughter, Ruth Elder, transatlantic aviator.

Ruth's parents, sister and brothers were gathered in a local newspaper office this morning, anxiously waiting for reports of their daughter's progress across the Atlantic in the plane American Girl.
Throughout the night they sat in their little home, not daring to sleep.
Anxiety was written on the faces of all.
"I knew Ruth would be found safe," the mother exclaimed when she was told of Ruth's landing today. The father, standing aside, turned his head and wiped away a tear.
Smiles on the faces of the brothers and sisters replaced the troubled expressions which plainly have shown their misgiving during the last few hours.

Great Joy in The Home Town

Lakeland, Fla., Oct. 13 (AP)—Joy unrestrained, marked the reception
by their home town of the Associated Press report that Miss Ruth Elder and George Haldeman had landed safely in the "American Girl" at sea.

Hundreds of persons gathered in front of the office of the Lakeland Ledge broke into a deafening roar of applause as the announcer read the flash of the safety of the Lakeland flier.
J. J. Haldeman, father of the co-pilot and navigator of the American Girl was in the Ledger office when the flash came. He was too overcome for a few seconds to make any comment.
"I knew they would do it," were his first words. Then he broke into a broad grin. "I knew they would do it," he repeated.
The Haldeman family were consistent all the time, both Mrs.
Haldeman and her husband asserting "George will pull through."

of bad luck that might happen in any flight, I suppose," said Mr. Cornell.
"Of course they will be disappointed that they didn't make it, and so are we, but we are glad that they are safe."
Mrs. Haldeman had been cheerful and confident throughout the long tense hours.

Testimony in Census Probe

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Testimony was taken in the Moreland act, investigation into the state census today.

Assistant Secretary Testifies.
Mark Stern, first assistant secretary of state under both Mrs. Knapp and the incumbent, Robert Moses, was the first witness, testifying as to persons whose names had appeared on the census payroll.
"Did you have anything to do with the appointment of the supervisor of the census?" asked Mr. Le Boeuf.
"I had nothing to do with that," replied Stern. "I was just told to put him on the payroll."
"Who was that person?"
"LaFayette B. Gleason."
Mr. Gleason is secretary of the Republican State Committee.
Stern said he had corresponded with the Civil Service Commission regarding appointments of "persons" Mrs. Knapp instructed me to put on the payroll.

"Did you have anything to do with the appointment of enumerators?"
asked the commissioner.
"Nothing," said the witness.
How Appointments Were Made.
"How were the appointments of enumerators made?"
"The appointments came as the result of letters Mrs. Knapp sent to the county chairman."
"Of what party?"
"The Republican party," Stern answered. Mrs. Knapp is a Republican as is Commissioner Le Boeuf.
"Did you see any of these replies?"
asked Mr. Le Boeuf.
"No," replied Stern.
"Why?"
"Perhaps," said the witness. "It was because Mrs. Knapp did not want me to see them."

Employes Given Titles.
Stern testified that for the census
there were enumerators who did the work in the field and also supervisors and assistant supervisors. Some of the supervisors, he said, had charge of the enumeration work in counties. As to the others, Stern asserted the title of supervisor or assistant supervisor was "just a title."
Mrs. Knapp gave to some in the bureau.

"So they might be doing almost any kind of work?" queried the commissioner.
"Yes," responded Stern.
Asked whether there was any record of who worked in the census office at Albany in relation to any function of the enumeration, the deputy said he did not know of any such work sheet. He said he believed there had been a work sheet of employees in the census bureau.

"Where are these work sheets?"
asked Le Boeuf.
"I don't know," said Stern.
"Did you ever see any?"
"I saw some on Mrs. Knapp's desk," replied the witness.
Stern then testified that at the request of Secretary Moses and of Mr. Le Boeuf he has searched in the department for all records relating to the census, but that he had found no work sheets.

Memoranda Missing.
He asserted that when he was directed to put a supervisor or an assistant supervisor on the payroll, Mrs. Knapp made known her wish by a memorandum on scratch pad paper.
"What did you do with these written memoranda?" asked Le Boeuf.
"I put them in my desk," said
Stern. "Then, by direction of Mrs.
Knapp, I put them in the private file in Mrs. Knapp's office."
"So you no longer have any record of these memoranda?"
"No."

Heavy Wind Storm Broke Over City

One of the most severe storms of the year broke over Kingston during Wednesday night and was accompanied by a heavy fall of rain. The high wind blew the limbs from trees all over the city and caused interruptions in the electric service. The most severe interruption was caused by a high blowing down the feed wire on Greenhill avenue, causing an interruption of a quarter of an hour in electric service, both home and mercantile, as well as street lighting in the uptown district. There were also minor interruptions in the street lighting circuits about the city.

Miss Jessie M. Cowley of Kingston, as reported in The Freeman of October 11, and Philip L. Miller of Rox-mor in Woodland Valley (Phoenicia).
Philip, just past 21, has always been a dreamer and an enthusiast in matters musical. At 11 he joined the choir of the Episcopal Church at Rhinebeck, and later, largely on the recommendation of the choirmaster, Mr. Coke-Jepcott, was accepted at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York city. For three years he attended the Woodland Valley Preparatory School in the Pantherkill Valley (Phoenicia), enjoying the specially chosen tuition under its head master, Mr. Spink, and in an environment naturally inspiring to one of a musical and poetic temperament. Since 1925 he has had vocal training under Miss Estelle Platt, of the Carnegie Studios, and piano and technical branches of music at the Neighborhood School in New York.

Some Doubt About Him

Human nature changes so little as the years go tearing along that we suppose, when Horace Greeley, Charles A. Dana and Henry Watterson were grinding out their daily observations, middle-aged and elderly people used to sign for the good old days when there were at least a few great editors.—

Chest Colds
Need Direct
Treatment

IT IS an obstinate cold indeed
that can resist the direct, double action of Vicks. Rubbed on the chest,
it acts two ways at once:
(1) Direct to air passages with its healing vapors released by body heat;
(2) Like a poultice, it "draws out" the soreness.

SEEK BRAINS FOR EXAMINATION

Scientists and Medical schools are trying to get the brain of Russell Scott, who committed suicide at Chicago. Scott's rapid rise to the head of a $30,000,000 concern was followed by an equally rapid drop to poverty and after losing a personal fortune of $2,000,000 his struggle for existence through shady schemes finally ended in the alleged murder of Joseph Maurer. After being reprieved eight times, Scott won his bet with Dick Loeb and escaped the gallows by his own act.

Goldfish Bowl Fires
That pretty bowl of goldfish that looks so innocent in your window may set your house on fire by acting as a burning-glass and refracting the sun's rays on inflammable material. Mirrors, too, are dangerous, as well as glass powder-bowls, bottles, and, most of all, shaving mirrors, because they are concave.

Legal Phrase
The word "novation" is from the Latin word meaning "new," and its use in legal phraseology means a substitution of a new obligation, indebtedness, creditor, etc., for an existing one.

Language of Indians Different Indian tribes had different names for things, the Dakota word for "cucumber" being "mash-pot"; the Lodge, "mash-pot," and the Cheyenne,
